

DISABILITY SERVICES AND FACILITIES

Faith makes provisions to accommodate any student who has documented physical or academic needs. If the accommodations are physical or medical in nature, the student should contact Mrs. Kim Nihart, the director of health services. If the accommodations are academic in nature, the student should contact Mr. David Horner, the director of accommodations services.

Faith also makes provisions for physical accessibility. Both of the residence halls have a first-floor room which is ADA compliant. The library has an elevator for students to access the second floor.

In addition to the help a professor can give a student in a course, Faith also provides additional services for students.

- Study Skills Workshop

Faith provides a study skills workshop at the beginning of each semester to assist students in time management, content reading, note taking, test taking, memory retention, and composition.

- Writing Center

Faith emphasizes the importance of excellence in written communications. To assist students in achieving excellence in writing, we provide a Writing Center to assist students in their written communications. Some professors ask students to take their papers to the Writing Center, but all students are encouraged to use the Writing Center for any paper. The Writing Center is located on the upper level of the Library, and hours of operation are posted each semester.

- Tutoring

Faculty or peer tutoring is available by request for students who want additional help in completing assignments or taking tests.

- Writing Improvement Program

To assist students further in their writing, Faith initiated the Writing Improvement Program. This program assesses students at different points in their freshman and sophomore years and provides additional writing instruction for those who may need it.
