I would offer less choices at the meals in order to make the meal plan cheaper. It frustrates me that we are required to be on the meal plan but it is so expensive. I could save 2000 per year buying my own food and I dont think spending an 3700 on a meal plan that I could save 2000 by not being on is a good practice of Biblical stewardship. I could go out to eat for almost every meal and it still cost the same as Benson.

							Though I understand the struggle of having a very limited budget I believe that many of the students are dissatisfied with the dining services here. This is not to say that students are dissatisfied with the employees or management. We plainly see them working diligently to prepare meals, and we are grateful for that. However, changes need to be made to bring better quality food to the menu. People do not care so much about the variety of dishes as they do the quality of dishes. Things like the omelet bar have been great improvements. Even the new furniture in the lobby has been a pleasant change. The dining services need to realize that they only deter students from coming to this school, they hardly help. Thought perhaps a poor reason, many students do care a lot about the quality of food as they are selecting the school. I know that I am not the only one who believes that the food needs some major improvements.
